BIOGRAPHY

I'm the Founder and CEO of the climate justice and inclusion-focused nonprofit organization, Arnold Climate & Resilience (Arnold CR), and the public health and social justice-focused consulting firm, Intended Impact TM. I'm also an Outdoor Afro Leader, Board Member of the American Hiking Society, Appointee to the American Public Health Association's Committee on Health Equity and Social Justice, serve on the Ontario (Canada) Public Health Association's Committee on Anti-Racism, and DNA-verified descendant of the Georgetown University 272.

PUBLIC HEALTH EXPERTISE

I received my PhD in Epidemiology from the University of Washington in Seattle. I have over 20 years of experience developing and implementing research projects, 17 years of experience in evaluation, strategic planning, policy change, and capacity building for domestic and international public health programs and health systems, and 6 years of experience teaching graduate-level public health courses online. Areas of expertise include: Epidemiology, Evaluation, Maternal Health, LGBTQ Health, Rural Health, Tobacco Control, and Global Health and Development.
