

LONNIE HANNON III, PHD

"We are each other's harvest." Gwendolyn
Brooks and Proverbs 16:3

UNIVERSITY/ORGANIZATION AFFILIATION

- Tuskegee University
- Stillman College
- University of Alabama at Birmingham

CBO SOUTHERN ALLIANCE 2.0 SUPPORT

We can offer techniques that optimize translating scientific data, statistics, and theories for citizens not familiar with technical terminology. In addition, we can offer workshops on maximizing connections between grassroots organizations and local institutions such as churches, small businesses, and clinics.

CONTACT HANDLES

Hannonlonnie@gmail.com

www.linkedin.com/in/lonnie-hannon-iii-phd-5585a162/

BIOGRAPHY

As a medical sociologist, I understand how communities arise from complex, hierarchical human networks and how these communities interface with health behavior and health outcomes. My research argues that structured social and economic disparities significantly influence health outcomes. I have experience working with community institutions and policy makers to promote economic growth that creates positive health trajectories for minorities. I have parlayed this into an expertise in constructing analytical models and interventions that optimize healthy lifestyles by addressing neighborhood disadvantage. My research not only examines these phenomena, but it also seeks to translate scientifically viable methods of mitigating associated problems.

PUBLIC HEALTH EXPERTISE

How local and federal policies affect neighborhood and housing factors that influence health outcomes. Also, I have expertise in helping grassroots civic organizations execute and evaluate community-engaged programming.