

Fiscal Year 2020 Report to Congress (July 2019–June 2020)

The CDC Foundation enjoyed a successful year of significant program accomplishments during the period of July 2019–June 2020, which included response to the COVID-19 pandemic that continued on beyond the end of the fiscal year.

The CDC Foundation is an independent nonprofit and the sole entity created by Congress to mobilize philanthropic and private-sector resources to support the critical health protection work of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC Foundation is focused on one priority—helping CDC improve the health and lives of people on a population basis. Since 1995, the CDC Foundation has launched more than 1,200 programs and raised approximately $1.25 billion. The CDC Foundation managed more than 220 CDC-led programs in the United States and in 142 countries last year.

The CDC Foundation had its most impactful fundraising and programmatic year on record during the period of July 1, 2019–June 30, 2020 (FY 2020) in its efforts to extend CDC’s life-saving work, including programmatic support to expand the COVID-19 response. Below are program highlights, financial highlights and a listing of contributors. Additional detailed financial information, including the Foundation’s audited financial statements and its annual tax information returns (Form 990) as well as more information on the Foundation’s programs and partners, is available on the Foundation’s website at www.cdcfoundation.org.

The CDC Foundation is pleased to report that, for the thirteenth year in a row, the Foundation in FY2020 received a 4-star rating from Charity Navigator, the nation’s largest and most utilized evaluator of charities. Only one percent of charities rated have received 13 consecutive 4-star evaluations.

Program Highlights

COVID-19 Response: In January 2020, the CDC Foundation activated its Emergency Response Fund to support CDC’s relief and recovery efforts in response to the novel coronavirus. During FY2020, the Foundation was able to mobilize more than $172 million in funding and in-kind contributions from a wide variety of donors—foundations, corporations, government agencies and individuals—to extend COVID-19 response efforts. As COVID-19 began to rapidly spread through the United States in February and March 2020, the CDC Foundation ramped up crucial efforts to support the many needs of federal, state and local officials. As the response advanced, the Foundation focused in on addressing three areas of need—supporting health equity, tackling frontline response challenges, and activating health protection campaigns. As part of its efforts in FY2020, the CDC Foundation distributed over 7 million pieces of personal protective equipment for front-line workers; provided urgently needed laboratory and medical equipment; started hiring what eventually included 1,000 surge staff for state, local, tribal and territorial health departments; supported and expanded COVID-19 testing; aided long-term care facilities and community-based organizations serving at-risk populations; and supported much-needed communications campaigns, research and more. Examples of CDC Foundation support in FY2020 spanned from communication efforts to educate about COVID-19 mitigation efforts and the importance of maintaining your mental health during the pandemic to development of a monitoring tool, called SARA Alert, for COVID-19 and contact tracing that went live to support health departments in April 2020 as well as support for a help desk to educate and successfully onboard 750 jurisdictions, with over 1 million people having been monitored in the SARA Alert system. Domestically, outreach to vulnerable populations was extensive and included support to homeless populations, Native Americans, LatinX, and African-American communities, rural communities and the establishment of the COVID-19 Health Equity Task Force in partnership with the Satcher Health Leadership Institute at the Morehouse School of Medicine. Local response efforts may have been the most crucial in the fight against COVID-19 with funding and partnerships allowing CDC Foundation to increase testing capacity and support contact tracing in numerous states across the country, provide PPE to frontline workers and surge staffing for overwhelmed public health departments in a time of critical need. On a global scale, the CDC Foundation strengthened the coordinating capacity of central laboratories to scale up COVID-19 diagnostic testing through national laboratory networks of 15 sub-Saharan African countries as prioritized by the Africa CDC. Response work is continuing in FY2021 as the CDC Foundation continues to support critical response efforts that are needed to extend the response beyond available government support or bandwidth. More information is available at www.cdcfoundation.org.

Integrated National Serosurveillance in Nigeria: In Nigeria, the Nigeria CDC has identified integrated serosurveillance as a priority for generating high-quality supplemental information to augment the existing surveillance network, and for their overall public health response. Serosurveillance—which involves monitoring the presence or absence of antibodies or proteins in the blood serum of a population—provides an objective biological measure for estimating population susceptibility, exposure and immunity. Serologic data are increasingly used to guide public health policy and strategy, from support of vaccine introduction to verification of disease elimination. Currently, serosurveillance is often focused on a single disease. CDC has developed an approach to integrated serosurveillance for multiple diseases of public health importance using a multiplex bead assay platform. The platform can simultaneously measure up to 100 different disease-specific markers from a single dried blood spot, creating novel opportunities to establish integrated nationally representative serosurveillance programs. Data collected through integrated serosurveillance can also inform implementation of prevention opportunities across multiple diseases. With funding from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the CDC Foundation is working with CDC and other partners to strengthen the capacity of Nigeria’s National Reference Laboratory to conduct integrated serosurveillance multiplex bead assay technology. As results are available, CDC is working with the Nigeria CDC and government partners to analyze multiplex testing data and apply results to advance public health programs.

Hear Her Campaign to Prevent Maternal Complications and Deaths: Tragically, approximately 700 women die each year in the United States as a result of pregnancy-related complications, according to CDC. There are also significant racial and ethnic disparities in pregnancy-related complications and deaths. American Indian, Alaska Native, and Black women are two to three times more likely to die from a pregnancy-related complication than white women. Hear Her, CDC’s national communication campaign that brings attention to maternal mortality and provides support to pregnant and postpartum women to speak up when something does not feel right, is supported through a partnership with the CDC Foundation and funding from Merck through its Merck for Mothers program. While preparation for the campaign occurred in FY 2020, the campaign was successfully launched early in FY2021 in the middle of the COVID-19 pandemic. The campaign includes a suite of resources, including a CDC website, five testimonial videos, social media messages, two downloadable action guides, and more. Over 400 media outlets confirmed interest in the Hear Her Video PSA within the first two weeks of launch, over 140,000 unique visitors came to the CDC Hear Her website, with over 217,000 page views, and there were over 35 million impressions from digital media buys in less than four months after launch. In addition, the campaign website and most of the campaign materials are available in Spanish. As a next step, the campaign team is conducting formative work to inform the development of culturally relevant materials for American Indian and Alaska Native communities.

Violence Against Children Survey (VACS) Data for Change: An estimated one billion children worldwide experience sexual, physical or emotional violence each year making it a leading public health and human rights concern. Violence in and around educational settings is a global issue, as violence has been associated with lower enrollment, lower attendance, higher dropout rates and lower learning achievement. In particular, adolescent girls face significant barriers in access to quality education. Little is known about the complexities of gender-based violence and its effects on education, and few data are being collected on violence against children, particularly girls, in humanitarian, conflict and post-conflict settings. With funding from Together for Girls, CDC and the CDC Foundation focused on conducting secondary data analysis of Violence Against Children Survey (VACS) data to focus on the intersection between violence and educational access, and adapting the VACS protocol to include populations in humanitarian settings. VACS provide data on lifetime and past year prevalence of violence against children, which is critical for guiding governments and stakeholders in developing effective prevention responses and strengthening the stability of countries. Through these efforts, the project will contribute to the ultimate outcome of improved learning outcomes for girls in fragile, conflict-affected contexts and in humanitarian settings.

Monitoring E-Cigarette Use Among Youth: Since their introduction into the U.S. marketplace in 2007, the number, type and flavors of e-cigarettes available for purchase has increased dramatically. These product innovations and flavors have contributed to increases in U.S. youth e-cigarette use to epidemic levels. To better understand flavored e-cigarette products and their use, the Monitoring E-Cigarette Use Among Youth project with funding from Bloomberg Philanthropies uses a three-pillar strategy: 1) adding more nuanced, key indicators to state-based youth surveillance systems; 2) accessing real-time data on retail sales of e-cigarettes; and 3) leveraging longitudinal web-based surveys. For Pillar 1, the CDC Foundation worked with CDC to develop six optional electronic vapor product questions for the 2021 Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance System (YRBS) focused on flavored product use and brands. To date, seven sites are including at least one of these optional electronic vapor product questions, while many sites have opted into a later 2021 YRBS fielding due to COVID-19. To assess trends in U.S. e-cigarettes sales by product type and flavor as part of Pillar 2, a team of authors analyzed retail scanner data from September 14, 2014–May 17, 2020 from Information Resources, Inc. This work was published as part of a Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report (MMWR) and included collaboration of co-authors from CDC, the CDC Foundation, and Truth Initiative. The findings of this study show that disposable e-cigarettes and menthol-flavored prefilled cartridges have experienced significant increases in sales since August 2019. Specifically, disposable e-cigarette sales increased from 10.3 percent of total sales in August 2019 to 19.8 percent by May 2020. Moreover, this study shows that mint-flavored product sales were increasing until August 2019, after which mint-flavored product sales declined. As mint-flavored product sales declined, sale of menthol-flavored e-cigarettes increased, suggesting that users are substituting menthol for mint. This study underscores significant changes in the e-cigarette sales landscape, which could inform regulatory efforts to prevent and reduce e-cigarette use among youth at the national, state and local levels. Updates to this initial publication are shared as data briefs on the CDC Foundation website. For Pillar 3, the CDC Foundation is conducting repeated, cross-sectional surveys every six months in sites where policies surrounding e-cigarette purchasing (particularly flavored e-cigarette purchasing) have changed or are primed to change. Survey fielding is continuing; the CDC Foundation will use pre- and post-policy change data to be able to assess changes and publish this important data in 2021.

National Introduction of HPV Vaccine Evaluation: Cervical cancer is the leading cause of mortality from all cancers in Senegal and Zimbabwe. In Tanzania, cervical cancer is the leading cause of female cancer with almost 10,000 new cervical cancer cases and 7,000 estimated deaths annually. The purpose of this project is to evaluate the National Introduction of HPV Vaccine in early-introducing, Global Alliance of Vaccines and Immunizations (GAVI)-eligible countries to capture the successes and challenges that arise with national introduction of HPV vaccine. Conducted in Tanzania, Senegal and Zimbabwe, this evaluation aimed to gain a better understanding of the transition to national scaleup, program planning and implementation, communication, social mobilization and training, vaccine delivery and financial implications for sustainability. The project will conclude in FY2021, but it has already identified strong HPV vaccine introduction across all three countries, with high-level political engagement, knowledgeable health staff, and high vaccine demand in communities. The evaluation also provided insightful lessons and considerations for HPV program decision making, vaccine implementation, delivery and sustainability. The following key lessons were learned from this evaluation. First, that a long (12-month) timeline for decision-making process and planning is needed for a successful HPV vaccine introduction. Second, there is a need for comprehensive training and social mobilization planning and implementation. Third, school-based vaccination is effective at reaching the target age groups in these three countries. Fourth, there were several missed opportunities for vaccination including misunderstandings of target eligibility among health workers, lack of knowledge about HPV vaccination among girls and parents, and some vaccine hesitancy in communities.

First-Ever Awardees of the CDC-Hubert Global Health Award and Pappaioanou Veterinary Public Health and Applied Epidemiology Award: Since its inception in 1975, CDC's Epidemiology Elective Program (EEP) has provided more than 2,000 future physicians and veterinarians opportunities to gain experience with applied epidemiology and public health under the mentorship of CDC subject matter experts. EEP students have investigated domestic and global public health problems such as infectious disease outbreaks, natural disasters, chronic diseases and limited access to health care. Students often participate in surveillance, analyze data, assist with outbreak investigations and contribute to CDC publications and recommendations. This year, the CDC Foundation announced the inaugural awardees of the CDC-Hubert Global Health Award (Hubert Award) and the Pappaioanou Veterinary Public Health and Applied Epidemiology Award (Pappaioanou Award). These awards were presented to a total of nine outstanding recipients who have completed the CDC's EEP. The Hubert Award is supported by the endowed O.C. Hubert Charitable Trust; the Pappaioanou Award is supported through a fund established by Marguerite Pappaioanou, DVM, MPVM, PhD, DACVPM. Additional support for this year's Pappaioanou Award has been provided by Boehringer Ingelheim Animal Health USA.

Tobacco Control in sub-Saharan Africa: Tobacco use is the leading cause of preventable death and disease globally, resulting in more than 8 million deaths annually. Compared to many other regions, tobacco use remains relatively low in some countries in sub-Saharan Africa (SSA); however, the number of smokers in SSA is expected to increase by nearly 150 percent by 2030. Given the relatively low rates, there are opportunities to protect African populations from the ills of the tobacco epidemic. With a grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, the CDC Foundation aims to enhance tobacco use surveillance and research capacity in SSA by expanding the Global Tobacco Surveillance System (GTSS). The GTSS provides globally standardized data to track tobacco use and key tobacco control measures across SSA. In partnership with CDC and other global partners, the CDC Foundation works with countries in SSA to implement components of the GTSS, such as the Global Adult Tobacco Survey (GATS) and Tobacco Questions for Surveys (TQS). The implementation of these surveys provides comprehensive, globally comparable data on tobacco use and key tobacco control indicators. Additionally, the CDC Foundation and CDC support countries in strengthening local research and data use capacity to inform programs and policies in SSA countries. For example, CDC and the CDC Foundation started a yearlong sponsored mentorship program that aims to enhance capacity for data analysis and scientific writing in SSA. Through these efforts, countries can use GTSS data to enact, inform and evaluate tobacco control policies and programs and strengthen the scientific evidence base around tobacco control in SSA.

Building Capacity to Prevent Veteran Suicide: Suicide is the tenth leading cause of death in the United States, according to CDC—with responsibility for more than 48,000 deaths in 2018. Tragically, the rate of death by suicide for veterans is 1.5 times greater than for those who have not served in the military, particularly among young veterans aged 18–35. Suicidal thoughts and behaviors are rarely caused by any single factor, which means there are multiple pathways for prevention. To help address the challenge of veterans' suicide, the CDC Foundation, with funding and technical assistance from CDC, is working on a project to build evaluation capacity among veteran-serving organizations (VSOs) implementing programs that support an upstream public health approach to suicide prevention among U.S. veterans. This collaboration just completed its second year of work. In the first two years of the project, 10 VSOs were awarded grants to develop and implement an evaluation plan and build their capacity for ongoing program evaluation. The goal of the project was to help VSO grantees build and implement evaluative knowledge and skills and use evaluations as a performance improvement tool based on CDC's Evaluation Framework, resources and focused technical assistance. At the end of each project period, each cohort participates in a meeting with diverse, public and private external stakeholders with an aim to increase understanding of the work and experiences of project grantee VSOs and integrate evaluation into suicide prevention efforts. After an evaluation of the first two years of this project, we are pleased to share this work was able to establish greater credibility with key federal agency partners such as the Department of Defense through evaluation work with CDC; streamline internal processes and increase collaboration with key stakeholders within CDC through the evaluation knowledge and skills from this project; prepare some of the VSOs to adapt quickly to pressing needs during the COVID-19 pandemic through sustained use of these evaluation skills; and provide greater collaboration between public and private sector groups, making this work possible in the veteran suicide prevention space. As we enter the third year of this project, it is our hope these efforts provide a variety of resources to help address the urgent American public health issue of veteran's suicide and help our veterans who have sacrificed so much for our country.

Evaluation Malaria Vaccine Implementation Program (MVIP) in Kenya: According to the World Health Organization, there were 229 million new malaria cases and 409,000 malaria deaths in 2019, with Africa bearing the greatest burden (94 percent). The RTS,S malaria vaccine—in development for over 30 years—has been shown to provide an additional 40 percent reduction in malaria cases, on top of protection provided by other proven WHO-recommended malaria tools, resulting in a welcome contribution to improve health and reduce burden on health facilities. In 2015, WHO advisory groups recognized the public health potential of the RTS,S vaccine while acknowledging the need for further evaluation in real-life settings to enable WHO policy recommendations for broader use of RTS,S in sub-Saharan Africa. The Malaria Vaccine Implementation Program (MVIP) was developed to pilot the RTS,S malaria vaccine in routine immunization in selected areas of Ghana, Kenya and Malawi, known for their strong malaria and immunization programs. The CDC Foundation is in the midst of the Kenya MVIP Phase 1 implementation. The program is evaluating the impact of the vaccine in preventing severe malaria and death, and the vaccine's safety in routine use. The pilot also provides the opportunity to learn how best to reach children with the recommended four-dose vaccine schedule. Since vaccinations began in 2019, more than 1 million doses of the RTS,S malaria vaccine have been administered, and more than 500,000 children across the three countries have received their first dose of vaccine through the immunization programs. Data from MVIP will be reviewed for a potential vaccine recommendation for broader use in 2021.

Financial Information

For the year ending June 30, 2020, contributions to the CDC Foundation were $266.4 million and consisted of: $70.8 million from foundations; $26.1 million from other organizations and individuals; $115 million from corporations; and $54.5 million in direct federal grants. The majority of these contributions were restricted to the following program focus areas: $20.8 million to infectious disease; $174.2 million to emergency preparedness and response; $26.4 million to global health; $31.2 million to chronic disease and birth defects; and $13.8 million to other areas.

The Foundation received federal funding of $1.25 million for the year ending June 30, 2020, to help defray administrative costs to the Foundation. This funding was primarily used to fund the costs of the staff who were responsible for building the partnerships that generated $266.4 million in support of expanded programming for CDC.

As of June 30, 2020, the Foundation had total assets of $277.5 million; total liabilities of $22.4 million; and total net assets of $255.1 million. Eighty-nine percent of these assets were restricted by the donors to fund specific projects for CDC. For the year ending June 30, 2020, the Foundation generated total contributions and other revenues for financial reporting purposes of $259.1 million and incurred total program costs and other expenses of $115.6 million. These program costs and other expenses consisted of $18.5 million in project grants; $86.8 million in other program costs; $8.1 million for management and general expenses; and $2.2 million in fundraising costs. The CDC Foundation follows generally accepted accounting principles. Therefore, it recognizes commitments made by donors to fund projects as contributions at the time of the commitment whereas disbursement of project funds may span multiple years. Due to the timing of commitments received during the year ended June 30, 2020, total contributions and revenues substantially exceeded program costs and expenses. The surplus created during the year ended June 30, 2020, is expected to be utilized in future years, principally for COVID related programs.
