

Fiscal Year 2023 Report to Congress

(July 2022–June 2023)

The CDC Foundation experienced a successful year of significant program accomplishments during the period of July 2022–June 2023.

The CDC Foundation is an independent nonprofit and the sole entity created by Congress to mobilize philanthropic and private-sector resources to support the critical health protection work of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC Foundation is focused on one priority—helping CDC improve the health and lives of people on a population basis. Since 1995, the CDC Foundation has launched nearly 1,400 programs and raised more than $2.16 billion. The CDC Foundation managed 138 programs in the United States and in 77 countries last year.

The CDC Foundation had a highly impactful fundraising and programmatic year during the period of July 1, 2022–June 30, 2023 (FY 2023) in its efforts to extend CDC’s lifesaving work. Below are program highlights, financial highlights and a listing of funders. Additional financial information, including the Foundation’s audited financial statements and its annual tax information returns (Form 990) as well as more information on the Foundation’s programs and partners, is available on the Foundation’s website at www.cdcfoundation.org.

The CDC Foundation is pleased to report that, for the seventeenth year in a row, the Foundation received a 4-star rating from Charity Navigator, the nation’s largest and most utilized evaluator of charities. Only one percent of charities rated have received 17 consecutive 4-star evaluations. In this latest evaluation, the Foundation received a perfect score of 100 for its financial efficiency, trustworthiness and transparency, as well as its leadership and adaptability.

Program Highlights

Reducing Barriers for Those at Risk of Mpox

In 2022, the United States experienced an unprecedented and rapid outbreak of mpox, a rare disease caused by a virus in the same family of viruses as smallpox. CDC estimates there are 1.7 million people in the United States who would benefit from mpox vaccines; however, factors such as limited healthcare access, fewer providers, lower vaccine confidence and concern about stigma have slowed vaccination efforts. There are also racial and ethnic disparities in vaccine coverage. The Reducing Disparities in Mpox Vaccination project, launched in January 2023 and supported by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, provided mini-grants to 34 community-based organizations, six health departments and a tribal organization—reaching 20 states and Puerto Rico to support mpox vaccination efforts and working to reduce or eliminate barriers to vaccination among populations disproportionately impacted by mpox. These organizations created strategic communication materials, launched vaccine clinics within easily accessible locations, provided transportation support and coupled mpox activities with HIV and sexually-transmitted infection prevention activities, all with the goal of addressing language barriers, vaccine hesitancy and health disparities and increasing access to health care.

Expanding Public Health Data and Surveillance Systems

Today, some health departments still rely on fax machines to send and receive health-related data. These outdated processes slowed down the flow of information during the COVID-19 pandemic, leading to delays in decision making. But the CDC Foundation is helping health departments plug into modern, secure public health data and surveillance systems that can alert communities to health threats, like increases in maternal mortality rates or outbreaks of communicable diseases, in real time. As one aspect of this data modernization effort, the CDC Foundation reached across sectors to bring together experts from CDC, government, research and private industry for a new Health Data and Innovation series. The initiative kicked off with a two-day gathering featuring more than 60 major tech companies to share the latest information and advances.

This work is supported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of a financial assistance award totaling $4,819,814 with 100 percent funded by CDC/HHS. The contents are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily represent the official views of, nor an endorsement by, CDC/HHS or the U.S. Government.

Expanding the Public Health Workforce

In addition to the CDC Foundation's successful initiatives to add more than 4,000 field employees to the understaffed public health workforce as part of the COVID-19 response, the State-Funded Projects team was established in 2021 to assist departments across the country in quickly mobilizing jurisdictional resources and support workforce capacity needs by recruiting, hiring, training and managing staff. By offering competitive salaries, benefits and growth opportunities, the Foundation continues to attract high-quality candidates, enabling health departments to boost their ability to respond to their communities' needs in several key areas. In June 2023, there were 700 CDC Foundation field staff working in a variety of different roles within these organizations, ranging from traditional public health positions like epidemiologists, disease investigators and emergency response specialists, to data scientists, legal professionals, health policy experts, school liaisons, overdose coordinators, vaccine demand strategists and many more across all departments.

Using Public Health History to Impact the Future

Inspired by the writings of Dr. William "Bill" Foege—renowned American physician and epidemiologist and one of the key architects of the successful smallpox eradication effort in the 1970s—the Becoming Better Ancestors™ Fund was established in 2023 to support best in class, forward-thinking and strategic opportunities for improving public health. The fund was influenced by lessons learned from moments of transformational public health impact in CDC history, such as smallpox eradication, the COVID-19 pandemic and reducing tobacco use. Made possible through the estate of Craig White, the Hilton Foundation and individual donors, the fund aims to explore how these lessons can be applied to evolving and complex public health issues. The Becoming Better Ancestors Fund™ is a reminder that learning from public health history can empower us all to become better ancestors—and leave the world better than we found it.

Managing a Vector Stock and Reagent Repository for Research

Ticks are disease vectors, second only to mosquitoes in the number of humans they infect globally with disease-causing parasites, bacteria and viruses. In the United States alone, nearly half a million people are diagnosed and treated for a tickborne disease each year. The best way to address disease threats like this is to build and maintain strong public health and vector control programs at the local, state and national levels. To bolster public health understanding of tickborne illnesses, expanding geographic ranges for ticks and risk factors for contracting tickborne diseases, the CDC Foundation maintains, produces, authenticates and distributes vectors, like ticks, and associated reagents for the Biodefense and Emerging Infections Research Resources Repository. This repository allows the broader public health community, as well as those in the medical field and researchers in microbiology and infectious disease, to gain a better understanding of ticks and find solutions to the growing threat of disease.

The Vector Stock and Reagent Repository for Research program has been funded in whole or in part with Federal funds from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, National Institutes of Health, Department of Health and Human Services, under Contract No. HHSN272201600013C.

Protecting Children from Rotavirus

Rotavirus is a leading cause of acute gastroenteritis in children worldwide. This highly contagious virus can cause severe diarrhea, fever and vomiting, with more severe diarrheal disease occurring in infants and young children. Infected individuals may become severely dehydrated and require hospitalization. Rotavirus has a 2.5 percent fatality rate among infected children in low-income countries. This rate is higher in areas without good access to health care. In response to an ongoing disparity in vaccine coverage and to ensure children are protected from this deadly virus, the CDC Foundation works with 11 priority countries alongside the World Health Organization (WHO); Gavi, the Vaccine Alliance; and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. These programs are helping the public health community determine the effectiveness of newer rotavirus vaccines, including two more cost-effective Indian-manufactured vaccines and an Indonesian-manufactured vaccine.

Mobilizing Communities to Reduce Opioid Overdose Deaths

The opioid epidemic killed more than 80,000 people last year, according to CDC reports. The CDC Foundation's Overdose Response Strategy program is working at the community level to help reduce fatal and non-fatal drug overdoses, triggered increasingly by synthetic opioids like fentanyl. Now in its seventh year, the Overdose Response Strategy program was created through a partnership between CDC and the Office of National Drug Control Policy, through their support of the High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area program and the CDC Foundation. Currently, there are 61 two-person Overdose Response Strategy teams funded in all 50 states, Washington, DC, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, who gather and analyze data on overdoses and often examine the circumstances that led up to a fatal event to identify missed opportunities to intervene. Compiling this kind of information helps health departments, public safety officials and community organizations identify overdose hotspots and direct resources to those areas. These teams also advise jurisdictions on the latest prevention, protection and harm reduction strategies, like increasing access to naloxone—the emergency medicine designed to rapidly reverse an opioid overdose.

Portions of the project mentioned are supported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of a financial assistance award totaling $8,400,000 with 100 percent funded by CDC/HHS. The contents are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily represent the official views of, nor an endorsement by, CDC/HHS or the U.S. Government.

Sharing Lifesaving Messages to Help Prevent Pregnancy-Related Deaths

Hear Her is a national communications campaign developed by CDC to help prevent pregnancy-related deaths by sharing potentially lifesaving messages about how to recognize urgent warning signs related to pregnancy or delivery complications. The campaign seeks to encourage partners, friends, family, coworkers and providers—anyone who supports pregnant and postpartum people—to really listen when they tell you something doesn't feel right. Supported by the CDC Foundation through a partnership with Merck through its Merck for Mothers program, a current phase of the initiative focuses on American Indian and Alaska Native communities, which have a 13 percent higher maternal death rate than the U.S. national average. These new culturally appropriate communication materials were developed with input from American Indian and Alaska Native partners and include testimonials from several American Indian women who experienced pregnancy-related complications, as well as conversation guides, palm cards and posters that help pregnant and postpartum women and their circles of care recognize these signs and get the help they need.

Supporting Veteran Suicide Prevention Organizations

According to CDC, suicide is a leading cause of death for Americans overall and rose 33 percent between 1999 and 2019. Veterans are a population at higher risk for suicide. Data from the Department of Veterans Affairs from 2019 show the veteran suicide rate was 1.5 times higher than non-veterans. To help veteran-serving organizations better evaluate the effectiveness of their suicide prevention programs, the CDC Foundation was awarded a federal grant to work on the Veteran Suicide Prevention: Evaluation Demonstration Project in partnership with CDC's National Center for Injury Prevention and Control. As part of this program, the CDC Foundation has funded a total of 23 veteran-serving organizations over six years to evaluate their work in suicide prevention. The program provides intensive technical assistance to build evaluation capacity for upstream veteran suicide prevention programming while helping the organizations build their capacity to engage partners and better communicate and disseminate their evaluation activities and findings.

This work is supported by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) as part of a financial assistance award totaling $2.8M with 100 percent funded by CDC/HHS. The contents are those of the author(s) and do not necessarily represent the official views of, nor an endorsement by, CDC/HHS or the U.S. Government.

Financial Information

For the year ending June 30, 2023, total grants and contributions received by the CDC Foundation were $274.85 million and consisted of: $56.33 million from foundations; $13.83 million from other organizations and individuals; $8.32 million from corporations; and $196.37 million in federal, state and jurisdictional grants and contracts. The majority of these contributions were restricted to the following program focus areas: $46.28 million to infectious disease; $130.41 million to emergency preparedness and response; $23.40 million to global health; $24.65 million to chronic disease and birth defects; $16.66 million for public health leadership; $19.04 million for injury and violence; and $14.43 million to other areas.

The Foundation also received federal funding of $1.25 million for the year ending June 30, 2023, to help defray administrative costs to the Foundation. This funding was primarily used to fund the costs of the staff who were responsible for building the partnerships that generated $274.85 million in support of expanded programming for CDC.

The Foundation is the recipient of certain cost-reimbursable grants that are subject to conditions and restrictions typically met by incurring qualifying expenses for a program. Revenue is recognized for these grants as allowable expenditures are incurred. Of the $274.85 million of grants and contributions received in Fiscal Year 2023, $63.7 million represents conditional cost reimbursement grants that will be recognized as contribution revenue in future periods. As of June 30, 2023, the Foundation had total assets of $182.1 million; total liabilities of $22.4 million; and total net assets of $159.7 million. Sixty-six percent of these net assets were restricted by the donors to fund specific projects for CDC. For the year ending June 30, 2023, the Foundation generated total contributions and other revenues for financial reporting purposes of $284.7 million and incurred total program costs and other expenses of $296 million. These program costs and other expenses consisted of $24.3 million in project grants; $248.3 million in other program costs (primarily for the COVID-19 and opioid responses); $19.9 million for management and general expenses; and $3.5 million in fundraising costs.
