

STAFF BIO

Twanda Mickle, MBA CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

Twanda Mickle is a change-focused, human-centric leader who thrives at the intersection of technology, talent and change. She currently serves as chief operating officer at the CDC Foundation, where she oversees Internal Operations, including Finance, Human Resources, IT and Strategic Operations. She serves on the CDC Foundation's C-Suite Team.

Previously, Mickle was vice president of Strategic Operations, leading Workforce Services, Business Operations and IT & Data Governance. In this capacity, she led initiatives that strengthened public-health infrastructure, optimized enterprise technology solutions and mobilized resources to deploy thousands of public health professionals nationwide.

Before joining the CDC Foundation, Mickle spent more than 15 years in management and IT consulting, leading global teams and client engagements across Fortune 500 organizations. She has held leadership roles with Arthur Andersen, KPMG and ASAP Solutions Group, specializing in organizational change and human capital transformation.

Mickle holds an MBA from the University of Florida's Warrington College of Business and a B.A. in Business Management, summa cum laude, from Dillard University. She is a Master Change Management Professional (MCMP), Maxwell Leadership certified team member and an experienced facilitator passionate about empowering leaders and teams to achieve lasting impact.
